

Unique Beyond Measure

EXSERO Software took a unique approach in the development of our ASPECT IR inspection & reporting software. ASPECT was developed in the field on production IR inspections by an experienced team of Level III Certified Infrared Thermographers and a highly experienced software development team. The development emphasis was placed on providing quality, comprehensive, reliable, yet easy to use software.

Our flagship product, ASPECT, gives Thermographers the ability to increase the number of inspection points they can complete daily and significantly reduces the post processing of images and report writing by 95%. ASPECT reduces the chance of errors by performing integrity checks on the fly during the inspection and produces unparalleled standards-compliant reports in minutes NOT hours or days. Guaranteed!

EXSERO Software is committed to providing robust, compliant, supported, state-of-the-art software with FREE regular updates for our users. Our mission is to provide software that is user driven and straight forward. Enabling quick access to the widely used features & commands to get the job done with common sense, easy to locate tools and intuitive options that are all reliable and well supported.

In Short - To Develop reliable and dependable software with the end user in mind and give our users the tools they need to do their job more efficiently without having to focus on, or worry about the stability and reliability of those tools.

Our unflinching mission at EXSERO: Is to provide you with the finest, most well thought out, comprehensive, robust, and dependable inspection and report generating software available. And to support that software at a level unmatched by anyone else in the software industry.

We want our user's experience to be nothing less than spectacular. The best part of my day is hearing from passionate ASPECT users who share genuine stories of how our software and our customer service has made their day special by exceeding even their highest expectations.

There is 'No - No' here. "Find a way to do it and make it work for our customers, our end users and our company and we will get it done."

This way, everyone wins, --- our customers, our end users, and our company. The EXSERO difference is the ability to expedite decisions, without red tape and to simply 'do the right thing.' The values that make the EXSERO Difference are the core group of defining principles that we abide by, we treat everyone like family, with honesty and integrity at all times.

It is our privilege to be a part of your business journey and we look forward to being of service.

Lawrence D. Stratton

President & CEO
EXSERO Software, Inc.
exserosoft.com